Description: The mission of the Biomedical Research Informatics Core (BRIC) is to utilize the expertise of BIDMC "informaticians" with backgrounds in medicine, biology, engineering, biostatistics, and computer science to facilitate research at our institution by (a) providing a high level of service and experience in informatics that is difficult for individual laboratories to achieve and maintain, (b) developing the infrastructure required to address common informatics needs of all researchers, and (c) identifying areas in which there can be closer collaboration among life scientists and quantitative scientists. View our portfolio for examples of BRIC projects. To arrange for a free consultation, please contact Griffin Weber. If you choose to use BRIC services, hourly fees vary depending on the types of services needed. You will be given an estimate of the number of hours before any work begins.
